CONTINUING EDUCATION

Autism Spectrum Disorder: Patient Care Strategies for Medical Imaging
Amber L Hayes .................................................................................................................. 31

Imaging Traumatic Hand and Finger Injuries
Jonathan B Havrd, Elizabeth Paterson ................................................................................ 51

Nonroutine DXA Scanning
Matthew E Berry .............................................................................................................. 68

ORIGINAL ARTICLES

Caring for the Transgender Patient
Kevin R Clark, Beth L Veale, Frank A Zaleski .................................................................. 7

Teaching Safe Patient Handling Skills Using a Peer Approach
Rose Boucaut, Debbie Howson ......................................................................................... 20

EDITORIALS

Communicating With Patients Undergoing Abdominopelvic CT Imaging ............... 76
Leading for a Healthy Culture ......................................................................................... 78
Improving Patient Safety in Interventional Radiology ............................................... 81
Image Analysis Basics .................................................................................................... 84
Understanding and Surviving the Peer Review Process ............................................. 92
Working Abroad in Ghana: Cultural Considerations in Radiologic Science .......... 94
Using Role-Play and Cheese to Simulate Foot and Ankle Examinations ................. 97

DEPARTMENTS

Editor's Note ...................................................................................................................... 6
Open Forum ....................................................................................................................... 99
Bookshelf .......................................................................................................................... 101
Author Information ......................................................................................................... 104

ON THE COVER

In "Marina Shore" the first in a series of 6 covers by Lizzy Rainey, R.T.(R.), of Lafayette, Indiana, for Radiologic Technology's 90th volume year, one might see more in the frothy shoreline that glitters with the rhythm of the waves' ebb and flow. The powerful waves beating the shore can leave behind the delicate, lazy pattern depicted in a mammograms' mediolateral oblique view.