Abstract

L2 language test scores are often used in the selection process for university entrance. This study examines the predictive validity of L2 language test scores and the influence of L2 language test scores on L1 French language performance. The results of this study provide evidence for the use of L2 language test scores in the selection process for university entrance.

Koen Van Gorp

L2 French Language Comprehension

612

Exploring Language Assessment and Testing: Languages